I'm a passionate designer who believes that beautifully crafted, human-centered design plays a crucial role in the success of every brand and product.

Since my first commercial projects at the age of 16, my enthusiasm for designing and solving design problems has only grown. So have the number of happy clients and my expertise (but still a lot ahead of me).

I aim to approach each project with a full understanding of its business and challenges, and then push it to where it should be (I hate wasted potential).

Let's do something awesome!
